I firmly believe that the future belongs to those who prepare for tomorrow. Victorious warriors win first before going to war while defeated warriors go to war first and then seek to win. Everyday, we must strive to create a culture that inspires caregivers and reshapes our resident's experience towards a more trusting and compassionate environment for healing to take place.

I understand that our residents judge their experience by the way they are treated as a person, not by the way they are treated for their disease. Our words matter, but what we do makes a bigger impression than what we say. Our culture of caring is deeply rooted in our value of empathy, teamwork, courtesy and communication. It is through hard work that we have come to appreciate the fact that we can't change the fruits of a tree without changing the roots. Here at Inspire, our roots are made of Respect, Integrity, Compassion and Excellence (RICE).

We must refuse to limit our potential based on the constraints before us as our resident's loyalty and staff appreciation is the only protection we have against serious competition.

Our dedication to our residents and staff is not just about service, it's not about the good times, or the bad ones. It's about the journeys we've taken, from our roots to the top. It's the friends we've made, the people we have met and standing alongside them when times become hard. It's being together. Service to us is family. It's community. It's unity. Its home.
